RE: Rivet, et al. v. Hoover, No. 01-756-C.D.

J 2001-812-CN

Bill
Dear ~~Mr. Shaw~~:

Following our conversation of earlier this week, I did some research regarding civil appeals from the decisions of District Magistrates. Under Pa. R.C.P.D.J. No. 1005B, the appellant has ten (10) days after filing the notice of appeal to file proof of service with the Prothonotary. However, if this rule is not followed, the appeal remains in effect unless stricken by praecipe of the appellee (see Pa. R.C.P.D.J. No. 1006). Also, service on the District Magistrate acts as a supersedeas to the judgment (see Pa. R.C.P.D.J. No. 1008). I have enclosed copies of these rules from the Pennsylvania Code for your perusal.

In the above captioned matter, the appeal was timely filed. Service of process was made, although not within the ten (10) days prescribed by the rule. I am not certain whether or not filing of the judgment was proper in this case. I do believe that at this time, the appeal acts as a supersedeas to the judgment and some notation should be made so that my client is not negatively affected by the judgment until a decision is made on the appeal.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Very truly yours,
